70 Red Buckets of Surprises!

“ We recently completed a successful project installing a monolithic liner for the City of St Helens Oregon on their 2 million gallon concrete reservoir. The project initially specified an epoxy coating after repairs on the interior. After abrading the substrate and pull testing we found the substrate did not meet expectation for the specified coating. After several meetings with the City they began contemplating an HDLP liner for the tank. With the help of Carboline Rep Craig Figgins I put together a proposal and presented to the city a Reactamine 760 monolithic lining system with a 10 year product warranty. There were several meetings during the project and at each meeting we were accompanied by Craig Figgins from Carboline who assisted greatly with the coatings Q&A when needed. We have installed a lot of Reactamine 760 as well other Carboline products this last year and have been very satisfied with each products performance. We look forward to many more products being used from Carboline on future Western Partitions, Inc., Industrial Coatings projects in the very near future. ”
